Tuition College Announces Increase

By Jackie Riggs

An increase in tuition, as well as room and board, has been announced by the college. This increase will go into effect next fall with the '78-'79 academic year. During that year, full-time students, (12 or more hours), at Avila will be paying $2200 for an education. Right now, it's at $1950 a year. This, of course, doesn't include room and board, fees, books, and other college expenses.

In a four year span, tuition has increased from $1600 in '74-'75 to $1700 in '75-'76, $1800 in '76-'77, $1950 in '77-'78, and now, $2200 in '78-'79. But Dave Kerr, director of financial aid, explained why the increase was needed.

"This increase can be accredited to inflation, the increase in the price of natural gas, the general expenses of operating a college this size, and an increase in the cost of education," Dave explained.

Dave said that there are about 20-25 private colleges in Missouri, and right now only three have lower tuition rates than Avila.

"Most of the other colleges haven't announced their increases for the coming year," Dave said. "It is very likely that after they do, Avila will still be one of the least expensive private colleges in Missouri."

He explained that over the last three years there has been an 11.3% inflation in the nation. At the same time, Avila has only increased costs 5.5%.

Students who wonder if perhaps the new library is causing the tuition, increase get a no from Dave.

"No," Dave said flatly. "Another thing, too, is the rumor around school that the soccer team is causing tuition to go up. This is not true."

"The library is being built on Fund-Raising money. Additional money for this comes from the efforts of the Board of Trustees who try and raise it. no college budget money is being spent on the library."

"Other college programs, like scholastic, theatre, or athletic scholarships, do not take money from the general budget. This funding is from private sources. In other words, we wouldn't have this money to work with if someone didn't go out and raise it."

Will there be any adjustments in Financial Aid packages to accompany this increase in tuition? Dave discussed this topic in detail. "Provided that money is there, and this, of course, is assuming the government will come through with it, and the student has the same financial need this year as last year, the increase will be made up in Financial Aid," he said.

Dave explained the processes taken on the state and national level to appropriate funds for Education. He said he had just spent a lot of time completing an application for Avila College requesting funds for next year. Everything he asked for in the form of different programs, like NDSL, (National Direct Student Loan), CWSP (College Work/Study Program), and SEOG (Supplemental Education Opportunities Grant), has to be documented.

A board here will look over this application and accept or reject it. If accepted, it goes on to the Dept. of HEW, Office of Education, for review. Here, all money is allocated by state, and not individual schools. The money comes from the annual budget President Carter has prepared for all government spending. It's quite a process and Dave is very optimistic that the outcome will fall in Avila's favor.

Will there be more tuition increases in subsequent years? Dave said hopefully not.

"It all depends what the cost of living will be in the future," he said. "If we can in anyway keep it from increasing, we are going to do it."

Will the increase in tuition cause students to leave Avila in search of a less expensive school?

"...Over the last three years there has been an 11.3% inflation rate. . .Avila has only increased costs 5.5%."

"I always hear that whenever we announce an increase," Dave said. "I'm sure we're going to lose some students, but we wouldn't keep them all, anyway. Hopefully, we won't lose too many. I think if a student is really interested in a private college in Missouri, they won't leave Avila after looking into some of the other private college prices."

Pool Strives for Unity

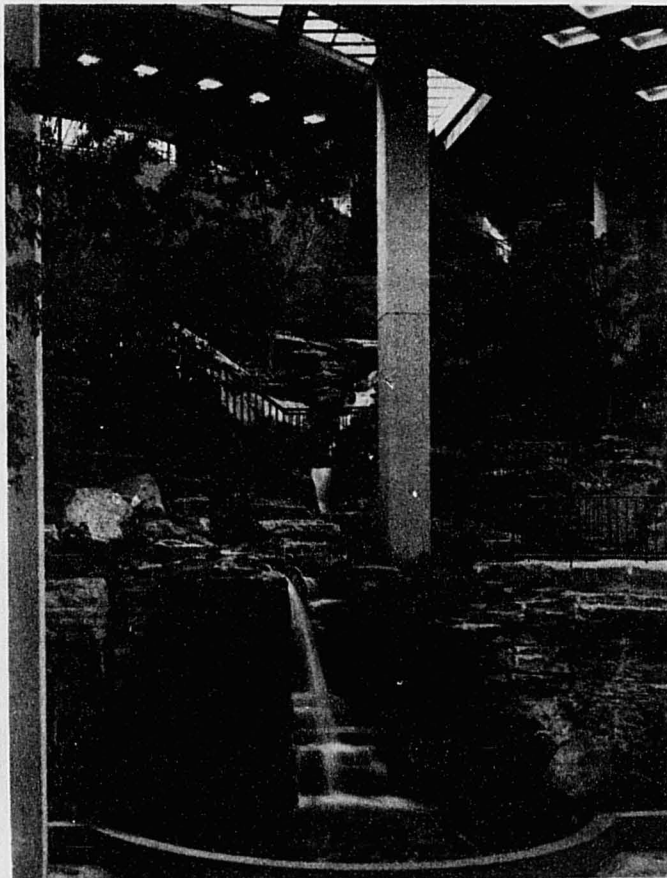

By Kim Vilord

A new group has been formed at Avila, with the purpose to provide information to all campus groups. It's called the Communications Pool. At the first meeting, nine students attended, all student leaders and organization representatives. The first meeting was Thursday evening, November 3.

Members of the pool said that with continual student body growth, ideas and help from the "Communications Pool" will begin to unite all areas of Avila activities.

The main objective behind the meeting was to inform all club and organization leaders of going's on in their group therefore, producing higher interest and more student involvement.

The first action by the pool was to place in the Student

Crown Center will be the site of the annual Avila Christmas dinner and dance on December 3.

Dance Celebrates Holidays

A memorable evening at beautiful Crown Center Hotel will begin the Holiday season at Avila. The Annual Christmas Dinner Dance, sponsored by the Student Union Board, is scheduled for Saturday night, December 3.

The site of the dinner dance, the Century Ballroom, overlooks a spectacular indoor tropical garden. Hundreds of tropical plants, ferns, shrubs and full-grown trees cover the rocky hillside, while a 60 foot waterfall plunges into a sparkling pool. This beautiful setting provides a truly festive surrounding for this important social event of the year.

A delicious dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m. A wide variety of dancing and listening music will be provided by the band, Northbound Express, from 9:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m. Dress will be semi-formal.

Tickets are now available at the Information Booth in Marian Centre. You may also purchase tickets from Robin Walsh, Chairperson, and Karl Delacarris and Kem Markway committee members. Dinner Dance tickets are reasonably priced at $7.50 per person. The tickets for the dance only, are $2.50 per person.

The Student Union Board cordially extends an invitation to all students, faculty and staff to join them for an enjoyable evening.

Commuter Defends Lack of Involvement

By Steve Scott

Dean Richard Scott recently expressed concern over a lack of school spirit among some Avila students. Due to the low rate of attendance at some extra-curricular functions, the administration feels that there is apathy towards some non-academic activities. Indeed, such appears to be the case. The question is: why these feelings of indifference to a well-rounded sphere of varied social interest?

According to Examiner Editor Mary Prigel, there are simply "too few students" who "are willing to assume responsibility" for the success of "campus involvement" in the "Avila community."

Well, this might be true to a great extent. Undoubtedly there are students who just don't want to become "involved" period. But speaking strictly from the point of view of one who commutes 30 miles daily and twice-daily, however, the greatest part of the problem is solely a matter of distance. Like myself, many students do not live close enough to make it at all convenient for them to be on campus for those occasions when they are not otherwise required to. It is neither practical nor possible for those of us who live in the outerlying areas of suburbia to effectively participate as a member of Avila's social class.

Visitation Policies Vary Between Area Colleges

By Kim Vilord

Dormitories provide students with basic necessities of "home" life, and in some instances even more. In any case, standard rules, and policies must be abided by all residents of a campus community.

A survey of small to average size campuses in or around the Kansas City area was made to compare residence hall procedures.

AVILA

Currently, Avila consists of two dormitories, both coeducational, with the first floor of each building reserved for male students. Each floor has a lounge, kitchen, and study hall area — any visitors are allowed in these areas only.

Visitation hours are Monday to Thursday from 6 p.m. to 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday from 1 p.m. to 1 a.m. and Sunday 1 p.m. to 11 p.m. In the lobby of each building is a card operated security system allowing students to come and go on a 24 hour basis.

ROCKHURST

Rockhurst, a neighboring private college in the Kansas City area, has three dormitories one being coed. The dorm does not include freshmen. Visitation hours are until 10:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday and on weekends to 2 a.m. Visitors are allowed in the students' rooms, which are anything from private rooms to 3 person suites. Lobby areas of each dorm are opened 24 hours;

therefore, allowing self-discipline.

UMKC

Not being a private college like Avila, and Rockhurst, UMKC is larger but still follows the basic dorm policies. Monday through Thursday, there is open visitation from noon until 12 midnight — weekends from noon to 2 a.m.

"Not being a private college like Avila and Rockhurst, UMKC is larger but still follows the basic dorm policies."

The only dorm on the campus is coeducational and the lobby is open to visitors 24 hours a day.

PARK

Park College at one time had a 24-hour visitation in any of the rooms of the buildings; however, this policy has been limited to a 12 midnight visitation hour for freshmen and 2 a.m. for upperclassmen. These are the designated times for bedroom visitation.

WILLIAM JEWELL

William Jewell, another small college in Liberty, Missouri, limits visitation to three hours on either Friday or Saturday night. These three hours are between 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. — depending on 2/3 majority vote of the house. These three hours allow visitors in bedrooms. William Jewell has no coed dormitories and each student has a written agreement with his parents and the school about allotted time out of the house.

'Hobbit' Features Special Effects

By Kim Vilord

Lightening, fog, and sound are only a few of the special effects used in "The Hobbit," and November 15-20 are the dates for Avila's fantasy filled play. Dr. William Louis, head of the drama department, said the idea of the play is governed by fantasy and color; an image created by special effects.

The total performance time of the "Hobbit" is only one hour 15 minutes and filled with many effects to create the majestic image J.R.R. Tolkien writes about. For instance, the multi-level stage is used to allow the actors portraying dwarves appear smaller. Characters will be covered with fluorescent paint and a black light will be used to cast a blue glow. It has also been suggested that strob lights be used in lightning scenes.

The sound system will consist of hidden speakers producing loud noises from the various creatures and Smaug, one of the principal characters in the play. Throughout the entire production 100 slides combined with movie projection are displayed on the 35 foot background. Among the rest of the scenery, there is a minimal amount of props. Whatever scenery there is, constantly appears and disappears from behind the stage.

Costume effects are heightened shoes in scenes where dwarves must be smaller. Also, oversize masks with lightup eyes will be used for the dragons and goblins.

Smoke and fog are among the effects used to set the scene. In combination with all the color, sound and fantastic scenery, "The Hobbit" is designed to appear as a fairyland of adventure.

can also be explained for the same reasons as the rise in tuition.

So, it has finally been put in black and white. Avila College is going to raise tuition and room and board next year. But, it isn't the only college doomed to such a fate. Not by a long shot.

Forgotten Woman Answers Phones

By Jackie Riggs

How would you feel if you forgot to credit Thomas Jefferson for writing the Declaration of Independence, or Abraham Lincoln for freeing the slaves, or Lila Crandell for working full-time at the Avila switchboard? Pretty embarrassed to say the least! This was the situation I found myself in, and went to apologize to Lila for this oversight. She was very understanding about the incident and proceeded to tell me some interesting things about herself.

Lila is a resident of Kansas City. She celebrated her tenth anniversary as switchboard operator at Avila last year. In fact, it was she who trained

"the voices at Avila College."

Before her work as a PBX operator, Lila had done office work. She heard about this job from a friend of hers who worked at Avila. She got on-the-job-training and has worked at it ever since.

"She has to know the names of all the Faculty and staff in the event she receives a phone call for them."

"I really like this job better than office work," Lila explained. "I like people and have no problems working with them. Usually people are pretty pleasant. I have to be very patient with the callers, but that's no problem for me."

Lila really likes her job as switchboard operator, despite the moments she gets 10

Lila said the job is confining because she has to be there every minute. There is no room in the switchboard office to walk around and get exercise, either. So Lila purposely parks far away from Blasco Hall to get a little exercise during the day.

There are a lot of names for Lila to remember. She has to know the names of all the faculty and staff in the event she receives a phone call for them.

"When I first started working here," Lila recalled, "all the sisters went by their religious names. When they changed to their more common names, I had to learn them all over."

Added Benefits Fill New Library

By Jeanne Pearson

How will the future library differ from the present one?

For one thing, there will be two levels to the new library. The upper floor will be named the Hooley — Bundschu. The lower level will be named Whitfield Continuing Education Centre.

In terms of space, the present library consists of 7,000 sq. ft. while the new library will be more than twice the size with 18,000 sq. feet.

"Students will be able to drop books off in the book drop located in the foyer," said Sister Una Marie — Head Librarian. "That is something the present library does not have."

Once you enter the library to the right will be a circulation area for more books on reserve. There will be a lobby area where the card catalog will be located. On the left will be Sister Una Marie's office. Next to that will be a children's literature room which will also be used as a study room. The left side will also consist of a study room and Technical Service Room.

"There will be a reference room enclosed in glass," continued Sister Una Marie, "this will be an ideal place to study. Also, there will be an office for the librarian."

A small area of recent periodicals will be displayed. The library subscribes to 435, all of which are not displayed in the present library.

Stack areas of books will be expanded and around the perimeter of the library will be carrels. In the center of the room will be tables evenly spaced to allow for quietness.

Something the present library lacks that the future one will provide is a lounge area in the back, along with vertical files, copy machines and two typing rooms that will be for student use. An Audio Visual Center, large viewing rooms and more stacks and cards.

The Whitfield lower level will consist of an Art Gallery large lounge, offices, mechanical rooms, maintenance area, classrooms and a large Continuing Education Room which can also be used for conferences that can hold the capacity of 300 people.

The future library is scheduled to open in January.

Volleyball Season 'Even Steven'

By David C. Cooksey

Avila's Volleyball team's 1977 season is finished. They had a very, very rough season with an even record — 12 wins and 12 losses. They failed to capture the season's crown but they never did fail to remain persistent and highspirited.

They saw plenty of action and heat on the court.

They saw plenty of action and heat on the court. Crowning the ball with sportsmanship across, underneath, outside, inside, and all over the net while they fought their opponents on tip-toes and off the fingertips. They continuously overworked their skills and performance as a team to cover-up and fill-in their weak depth. For those who are not knowledgeable of volleyball terminology — depth means the existence of a reserve force, or a second squad — sometimes referred to as, benchwarmers. The absence of depth is probably the most likely cause of the .500 season. Nevertheless, they came shining through with many outstanding experiences. Especially when they ripped and stomped the "dear old" Rockhurst volleyball squad.

After the season Virginia Meade, one of the captains, and a returning letterperson, saw excitement and excellent teamwork among her co-players. She stated that the team did their best; they had good team spirit, but felt that their main weakness was lack of depth. "We just need more players, and much more support from our college community," she stated. Her best two games were between Rockhurst and Missouri Western.

Patti Cronin was persistent and all charged up during the season. She was an attacker and a spiker and gained the record with her 85% consistency. Bless her soles and bones. Moreover, she tied with Cheryl McKee on the blocking responsibilities.

Teresa Hodes served proficiently with an 89 per cent record. To serve is a blessing

'Being a young team gives us the opportunity to work in unity over a longer period of time.'

because one is always sharing in faith with hopes of no returns. Teresa also took half the pie as best defensive player. The other half of the pie was shared with Jeanne Lillig.

Pam Sloan, Avila's Women Volleyball coach, had these comments about her squad's just completed season, "Although the team did not have enough depth as such, the girls did an outstanding job. If the same group returns next year, with individuals who have been recruited, then the outcome for next season should be favorable. Being a young team gives us the opportunity to work in unity over a longer period of time." Coach Sloan also saw, (as did many of the players) that moral support from the students and Faculty is needed the most. Furthermore, she expressed with excitement that Avila's team has girls who are between 5 feet and 10 inches and 6 feet, which is excellent height for any girl on a volleyball team.

Mary Walter voiced her feelings about the season like this, "Our recent season was a learning one." She reflected a need for a better attitude toward next season's rounds. "I'm determined and persistent about volleyball, but I need to work on my aggressiveness. Mary's best games were those which were played against Missouri Western and Rockhurst. She saw many errors the reason for having a split season.

Another squad member, Jean McKenzie stated that, "I saw a need for more support. The players were not in an optimistic state of mind. Their lack of spirit was due to poor support from the Avila gang. Our team needs more sincere practice and personal commitments. This would certainly increase our team's future performance." Her best games were with Rockhurst and William Jewell.

Hey gang! Our even record is an outstanding sign of future potentials. It was a great blessing to have Patti Cronin, Virginia Meade, Cheryl McKee, Jeanne Lillig, Teresa Hodes, Nancy Mundy, Mary Walter, Debbie Bishop, and Jean McKenzie along with coach Pam Sloan as participants for Avila's College Volleyball Team. Let us be appreciative for their hard, outstanding performance for 1977 and welcome them more so when they return next fall. Who knows what these young players might do in 1978.
